Anime Pilgrimage: Food for the Soul (🍴🍷🍺🍻🍱🍲🍜🍝). Some of the scenes in the series and comparisons to their real-life counterparts.

The places are Takao Shokudo (now permanently closed) and Yamabiko Chaya

"Wow this is awesome. Sometimes i forget alot of Anime is based on real places.And the work with these details, make us appreciate even more." - Own_Argument89

Surgeon jailed after amputation of own legs

Sunderland6969, 9/4/2025

Could not make this up! Neil Hopper (just let that name sink in) amputated his own legs for insurance fraud. But he also had a sexual fascination with amputation

"Sexual fascination? So he got hard every time he was in the operating room?" - BoglisMobileAcc

Whenever I see this in 2v8 I will immediately know we're going to lose and there's barely any hope for reaching at least 6 gens

"That depends. Escapists who only activate when a killer is close and let everyone sprint away are great. Escapists who panic activate when unhooking for no reason and make you exhausted are not so great." - NylonNylon

"Back in like, the 1950s or whatever, people bought expensive shit like refrigerators and sowing machines with the idea that it was going to last them pretty much for the rest of their lives. Hell, some of those products had 50 year warranties. Other than the battery being a bit old, my iPhone 12 still works flawlessly. If you're disposing of perfectly good electronics just because they're "old" or whatever, you're just encouraging companies to continue getting away with this shit and you're part of the problem." - thefinalcutdown my fit for MCR chicago 8/29. everyone looked AMAZING! I loved seeing everyone's outfits and I've seen some of those people post on here!

I wanted to share mines too, LMK IF YOU SAW ME AND MY FRIEND!!!

met some amazing and kind people that night. got some awesome merch and the show was just INCREDIBLE!!!

when Sleep had came on, I understood why people did drugs. I wish I could've had a better view tbh but gerrad looked so cutie pie wish I had met ray though lol

thank you to the fans who had given us the orange card for famous last words and the free pins!!!

Company behind Jack Daniel's says Canadian boycott is 'significant' as sales drop 62%

"After a while people will stop consciously boycotting a product. They get to a point where whatever the alternative is that they're buying become the default product and buying it is a force of habit. It will be very hard for them to get these customers back again" - Saltire_Blue

I am blown away by my son's girlfriends gratitude.

A bit of context: My eldest son and his girlfriend (both 21, and have been together since they were 16 yrs old) still live at home as it's far to expensive to rent around here, they often stay over at either my house or her parents house.

My son's girlfriend (SG) makes money between uni classes by walking dogs (she's a big animal lover and is training to be a vet in uni), and she was asked by one of her clients if she could dog sit for a few days while they're away on holiday. SG said yes but then realised she would feel uncomfortable staying in this persons house alone so asked me if she could stay at my house with the dog (her parents have two dogs that wouldn't take kindly to another dog staying at their house). I was planning on going away with my younger two (14 & 12yr old) kids anyway so I said sure, as long as her and my son make sure that the dog doesn't chew anything and any mess is cleaned up.

I've just gotten home to an absolutely pristine house! I work full time, and with the kids on summer holidays the place has gotten messy, I usually book a couple of days off when they go back to school and do a big clean to get back on track but she has done it all for me (she even washed the windows and cleaned the oven!) It really means the world to me because of the long hours I work and I have a back injury from a car accident 14 years ago which makes life really hard, and although flowers/chocolates etc are a lovely gift to say thank you, a helping hand when I need it most means a million times more to me!

The fact that she has shown her gratitude in this way shows how much she cares about us, and it's really made me quite emotional, I have three sons and I often joke that she's the daughter I always wanted! I'm just so blown away by how thoughtful this young lady is! I feel very lucky!

I'm breaking up with my boyfriend because he just couldn't believe that I wouldn't enjoy anal Long story short I got drunk and let him try anal. I've had multiple conversations about how I'm not a fan and that I've been raped so I'm not into anal. He couldn't put that past his own curiosity and then I remember when I actually just let him he complained that I wasn't into it. I feel like I betrayed myself and I resent him now. I hate being a woman. I hate that men want anal so bad that they throw away all compassion.

"When ever you doubt yourself, just remember: "It's Not About The Anal!" It's about his disregard for your needs over his wants. He wanted a certain sex act and you NEED to feel safe in a relationship." - MechanaGoddess Superman's dog being named "Krypto" is just bad writing. It's like naming your dog "Eartho".

I'd considering naming my dog Eartho if I was stranded on another planet and he was the last memory I had of home.
